

ABSTRACT

A system and device for use in a security area, and more particularly, a rack system and holding device for placing various objects that are processed through a security area are taught.